The Editor Speaks:

Success is the one thing that everybody desires. Despite the fact that two persons may be direct opposites in character, ability, and moral ideals; regardless of the fact that their religious and political beliefs do not coincide, they still are all eager, and even occasionally desperate, in their search for success. Our class is no exception to this rule. Therefore, the number one thing in which we are interested as we are graduated from high school is success, both material and spiritual. To be successful in life, one must not necessarily possess great riches, become a great leader, or be a world-famous scientist or engineer; but he must accomplish the definite objective which he has set up for himself.

In establishing this objective, we must take into consideration our abilities and our defects, and then with these facts firmly in mind we must set our goal as high as possible. We must be very careful, however, not to over estimate our abilities during this process of setting our goal, for we are living in a world of realism, and therefore must look at things in a realistic manner.

We are fortunate, indeed, in having a good high school education. Some of us will be even more fortunate in continuing our education in college. Regardless of its importance, education alone cannot be responsible for making our future successful. We must remember that it is only a technical training and must be fused with acquired knowledge and practical experience before we can obtain its total benefits.

In our unceasing search for success, foresight is another factor comparable to education and experience. Using foresight in choosing our vocation is of great importance. It gives us a definite advantage over those who have not correctly co-ordinated their thinking and thus are not able to cope with occupational problems which are continually arising. Under our present inflationary situation, two things should be of primary importance to us in choosing a job. The first is finding a vocation which will afford us a great amount of contentment. The second is selecting a field which offers us a definite chance for advancement. Initial pay is unimportant if these two needs are fulfilled. However, we should make our occupational plans flexible enough so that we can take advantage of opportunities when they arise.

The ability to get along with people and to sell ourselves to our associates and superiors is a quality of immeasurable value which is sorely lacking in many potentially great people. This is a personality trait which we should have developed considerably by now and must expand to the maximum before we can expect to be completely successful in life.

I have mentioned only a few of the many factors which it is necessary for us to acquire if we are to make our future successful. How we develop these factors and fulfill our needs is our problem. Our future is strictly up to us. As citizens of free, dynamic, ever-progressing America, we find no one to tell us what we must do and what we must not do. Our opportunities and our degree of success are limited only by our own personal deficiencies and are measured by our initiative, ability, and determination.

VIA LIFE'S ROAD

The path of life winds itself through the years, leading us through fields of happiness and over streams of tears. Ahead of us the path has many bridges to be crossed, many side roads to be explored and countless unknown opportunities.

But behind us is the memory lane which we have traveled. It has led us down "The Main Highway" of our school years. On this highway we encountered those three travelers--readin', writin', and 'rithmetic, who met us eagerly and filled our minds with invaluable knowledge.

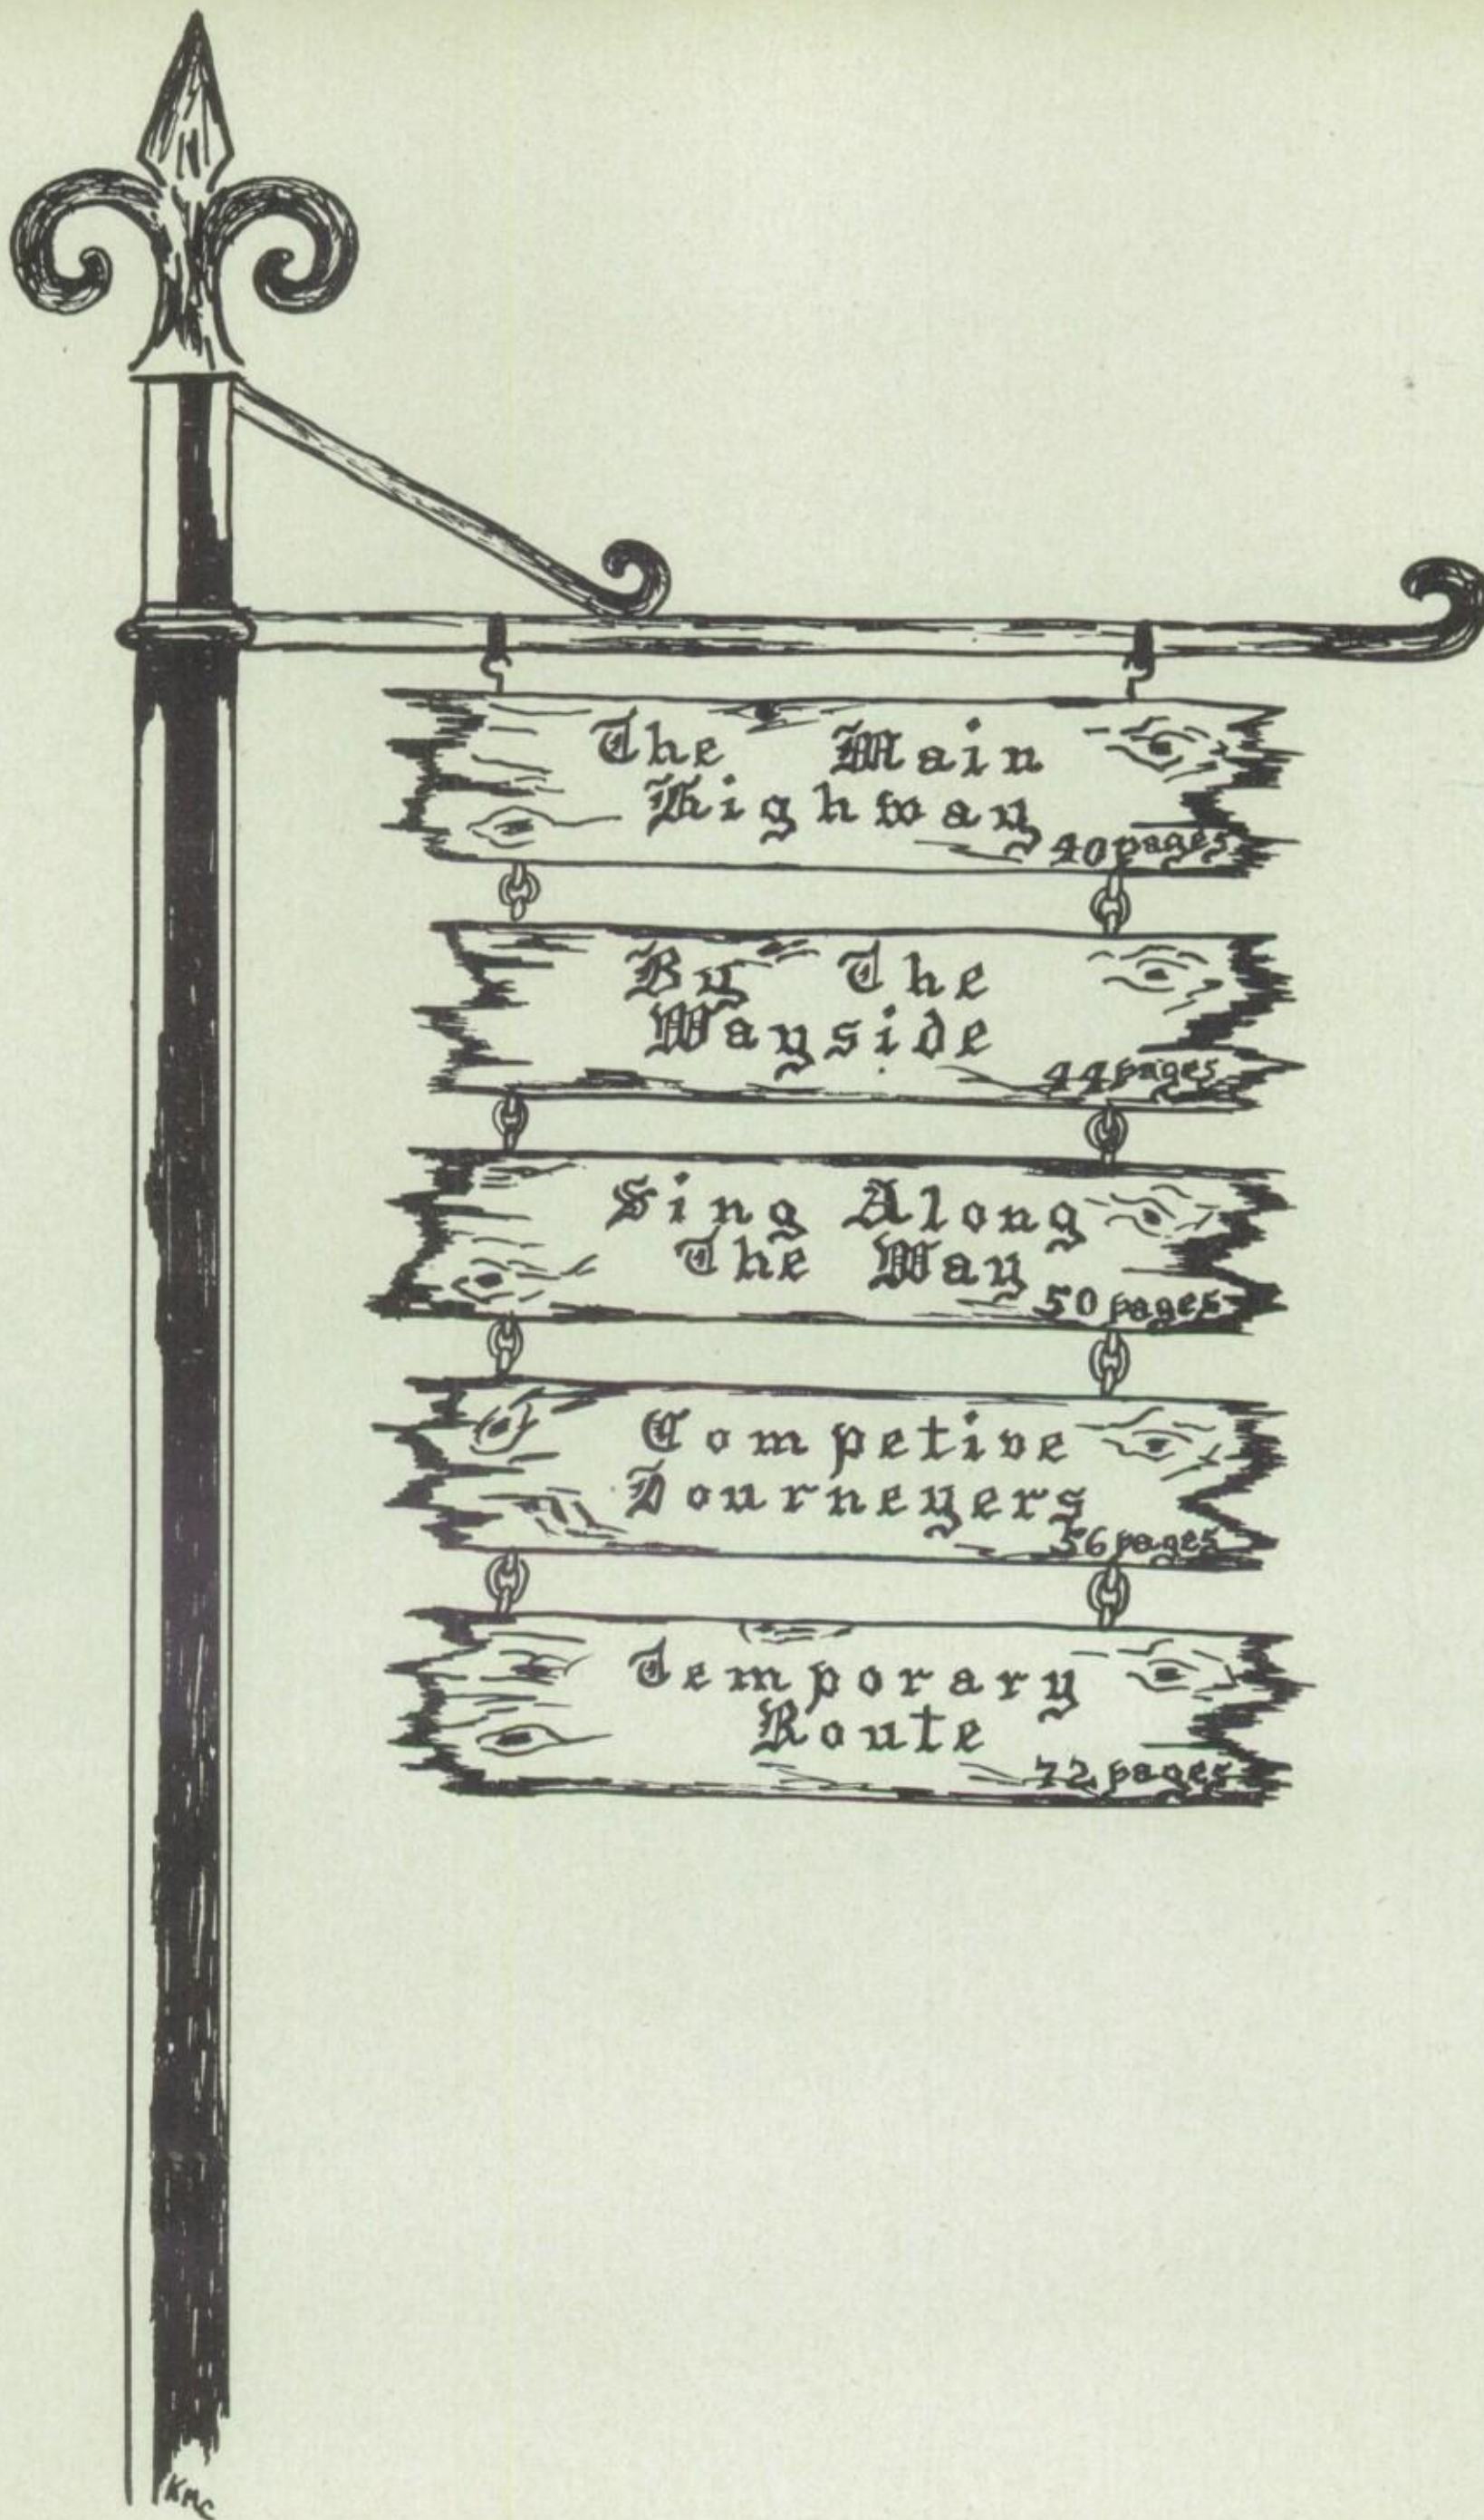

Then as we continued, we stopped "By the Wayside" to pause slightly for the numerous activities that waited there for us. Our hearts were light and gay as we marched, causing us to "Sing Along the Way." Our songs seemed to wash away those unwanted particles of darkness that we came upon and we continued our journey gleefully.

Soon we met "Competitive Journeyers" who were attempting, as we were, to lead all wayfarers. We met them with much vigor and held our place near the head of the procession.

To relieve the stress of speedy travel, we turned down a "Temporary Route" where many friendly comrades smiled greetings along the way, filling the road with companionship and enjoyment.

With this memorable part of our journey behind us, we continue on our way--the way which will take us, unfalteringly, up the road of tomorrow.

THE ENGINEERS

Waldo Miller, John Rundell, Cecil Prosser, Robert Winzeler, Harry Schwartz.

To form the plans and policies for the building of the long road through school are the engineers--the Board of Education. They are the financial managers, and without their efficient work, the road would have no foundation.

SURVEYOR

SUPERINTENDENT W. A. HOWALD

In every contract for construction, there must be a person to superintendent others--a surveyor. Mr. Howald serves in this capacity on the road through Montpelier High School. His duties lie in overseeing the faculty and the students. His responsibilities take him into either the elementary school or the high school where he can be found in his office attending to matters of great importance--those which form the foundation for an efficient educational system. He is friendly with his students and is always willing to help them. His guidance will long be appreciated by all who travel through the portals of Montpelier High.

CONSTRUCTOR

PRINCIPAL H. A. KARNES

In our school system, Mr. Karnes serves capably. Students in need of advice consult him, whether it be on matters of making a decision on a certain course or choosing a college for further training. He is seen in his office marking excuses, making announcements over the P. A. system, and figuring the points that each high school student has earned under the new point system. Although he is a very busy man, Mr. Karnes never fails to say his cheerful "Hi," which will be remembered in future years by all of his students.

Kate Cleveland, Janet Scott, Peggy Scharlow, Jean Lockhart, Jack Howald, Weldon Dean.

"Annual Board meeting tonight! Be on time!" Yes, we were at work once more.

Stacks of Mirrors from years gone by, other schools' yearbooks, papers strewn here, there, and everywhere, pictures smeared with paste, lists of advertisements--all of these are the trials and tribulations that were ours during our months of work. As our dummy copy slowly progressed, they provided us with the fun, the disappointment, the anxiety, and the life that we packed into our product--The 1948 Mirror.

Danger! Crossroad! After four years of our journey, which have been overflowing with success and disappointment, work and play, laughter and tears, we have reached the crossroad. Now we must make our decisions. Some of us shall go straight ahead through the gates which lead to college; some shall turn down the country lane to build fine homes and farms; and still others shall turn toward the cities where opportunities await us.

Glancing back we see four years of our lives spent in preparation for meeting this crossroad to the future.

OUR QUEEN

Lorna Dayhoff

She walks in beauty, like the night
Of cloudless climes and starry skies;
And all that's best of dark and bright
Meet in her aspect and her eyes.
- Byron

Lorna Jean Dayhoff was chosen queen of the Senior Class of 1948. Attending the queen were Valencia Kissinger, Connie Kannel, Irene Roush, and Janet Snyder.

OUR JOURNEY PROGRESSES

Mary Beucler, Vonda Lightbody, Lyle Storrer.

"Stop, look, and listen, before you cross the street!" A street that spells Seniors to us, is the one about which we are speaking. Before crossing it, the last street before we turn the corner and become seniors, we must stop. Stop and look both ways. Behind us are our Junior Play and our Junior-Senior Banquet. Look! Ahead lie unknown thrills. Listen! The class of '49 at last encounters the air of superiority never-lacking to a Senior Class.

ONE MORE MILESTONE

"Slow! Bridge Ahead!" We are nearing the famous crossing--from under classmen to upper classmen.

In the Fall of '46 we started this journey and what a thrilling journey it is! We've had to stay fairly near the planned course, but our stop-overs and detours have furnished us with ample excitement. The signposts along this road continue to point in that upward direction--the one that ~~reaches~~ toward the top.

CHARTING OUR COURSE

East or West? North or South? Which direction shall we turn? On that first day at 'Pelier High School, the Starting Point, we pondered over the map laid before us, each of us choosing his own direction. We have traveled together from Freshmen Lane to Sophomore Street, spending many pleasant hours in various activities along the way.

We have charted a true course and each milestone along the way marks another step of our progress.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL FACULTY

PRINCIPAL FRANK ALTAFFER

Mr. Altaffer is the chief guide and the head patrolman in the Montpelier Elementary School. His responsibilities are great, for it is his duty, with the assistance of the faculty, to lead the students of the lower grades safely through their journey of preparation for high school. These students, who are striving to make their journey successful, appreciate and welcome the sound advice that is given to them by their principal.
